Overview

A growing number of people – with a special emphasis on business travelers – check email, browse their favorite sites and watch videos via a mobile phone. Now they can shop and book a business trip from the palm of their hand, too.

GetThere Mobile replicates your corporate travel site on a handheld device, allowing travelers to shop and book air and hotel reservations, view and share travel plans, check flight status in real time and quickly contact your corporate travel agency. GetThere Mobile offers all the efficiency and policy controls of GetThere, and most importantly convenience for your road warriors.

How it works

GetThere Mobile is a browser-based HTML5 solution that replicates a corporation's travel site on most web-enabled mobile devices, including the Android, BlackBerry and iPhone. There's no app to download. Upon signing in (using the same password and ID that's already set up to login to the corporate travel site), travelers are directed to the GetThere Mobile home page with booking, trip information, gates and times, agency contact and dynamic company announcements all within view. Users can easily action any of these items with the touch of a finger or click of a button.

Company benefits

For many employees, mobile is a necessity and a natural part of how they do business. GetThere Mobile offers the perfect solution: your corporate GetThere site on a handheld device. It's as effortless to use as checking email or calling a friend. GetThere Mobile empowers users to be policy-compliant no matter where they are and drives online savings and adoption.

Travel Manager benefits

The majority of business travelers carry a mobile device. That's a fact – and chances are they also consume online content on a regular basis via a handheld device. A mobile travel solution is a natural extension of your corporate travel program. By offering GetThere Mobile to travelers, travel managers can help keep their end users happy and ensure policy is always within reach.

Traveler benefits

When a traveler misses a scheduled flight and they face the prospect of an unplanned night in a foreign city, they can quickly use GetThere Mobile to book a new flight and even a night at a nearby hotel if needed. All done within policy and within minutes using GetThere Mobile. And with the convenient and efficient ability to view and manage trips, employees can stay focused on business on the road and worry less about their itinerary.

Experience even more from GetThere
